PADUCAH, KENTUCKY, MONDAY, JULY 7, 1902.

TWO WERE POISONED

In Order That This Couple Could Wed—Sensation in Tennessee.

Old Masonic Temple Building Burning at Louisville—Mammoth Cave Gets Encampment.

FREIGHT HANDLERS STRIKE

SACRIFICED TWO LIVES

Knoxville, Tenn., July 7.—Night shade tea is the deadly decoction which it is alleged was used by Mrs. Agnes Fleming to kill her husband, John Fleming, so that she might be married to Howard Jenkins. Jenkins, it is alleged, also used the same means to poison his beautiful young wife, in order that he might meet the plans of Mrs. Fleming.

The scene of the affair is Roane county, the story having come to this city in a press dispatch.

Three weeks ago both John Fleming and Mrs. Howard Jenkins died under suspicious circumstances, but no action was taken until yesterday, when Mrs. Fleming, who is connected with a family prominent throughout East Tennessee, was married to Jenkins.

The warrants for the arrests of the pair were issued at the instance of the relatives of the two dead persons.

MASONIC BUILDING BURNING. Louisville, July 7.—The Old Masonic Temple Building at Fourth and Jefferson streets, is burning, the entire top floor, with theater, being in flames. The fire broke out at 12:15 and all the engines in the city are working on it.

MAMMOTH CAVE SUCCESSFUL

Frankfort, July 7.—As announced three weeks ago the summer encampment of state guards will be held at Mammoth Cave this year. An order to this effect was entered today by Governor Beckham. The date will be from July 30 to August 30.

A STRIKE ORDERED.

Chicago, July 7.—A strike of freight handlers has been ordered. Men paraded the streets and held a meeting on the lake front. Between 8,000 and 9,000 men are out and all the railroads in Chicago are affected by it.

100 TODAY.

THE TEMPERATURE GETTING VERY HOT AGAIN IN PADUCAH.

The highest temperature this afternoon up to press time was 100 in the shade, as reported by Observer Bornemann. There was a light rain in some parts of the city about 2 o'clock, but it was only a trace.

Yesterday the highest reached was 99 in the shade, but the heat seemed to be all the more because the people had nothing to do but think about it, while today many have been too busy to notice it.

HEAT WAS AWFUL

But Many People Attended Services at the Churches Yesterday.

Archdeacon Benton Heard at Grace Episcopal Church at Both Services.

NEW BAPTIST PREACHER HEARD

Notwithstanding the thermometer went to 99 degrees yesterday, there were good congregations at the churches that had services. Several ministers being absent from the city, their churches were closed except for the Sunday school hour.

Yesterday was third quarterly meeting at the Broadway Methodist church and the presiding elder, Rev. H. B. Johnston, filled the pulpit at both services, giving two strong and thoughtful discourses. Mr. Ed Scott sang a beautiful solo at the evening service.

Archdeacon Benton, of Louisville, held service at Grace Episcopal church both morning and evening, and preached two very fine sermons. Mr. Will Minnich sang the offertory at the morning service.

Rev. W. H. Robinson, the new pastor of the Second Baptist church, was with his church yesterday, preaching excellent sermons.

Rev. "Cap" Owen preached at the Trimble street Methodist church in the evening, Rev. J. W. Irion being out of the city.

Rev. J. C. Reid's evening sermon was a patriotic one and was a very fine discourse. The musical program was excellent.

Miss Birdie Gilbert's solo was a feature of the service at the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

BIG FIRES

NEARLY HALF A MILLION LOSS IN CHICAGO YESTERDAY.

Chicago, July 7.—Fire destroyed yesterday the buildings at 304, 307, 309, 311 and 313 Wabash avenue, causing losses aggregating over $325,000. For a time the fire threatened widespread destruction, as it was only through the utmost efforts of the firemen that the flames were prevented from spreading to the department store of Siegel, Cooper and Co., fronting on State street and separated from the burning building by only a narrow alley. Much excitement was caused among the guests at the Auditorium Hotel, directly opposite on Wabash avenue from the burning buildings and at the Auditorium annex.

The principal losers are: The Kuntz-Remmick company, saloon and restaurant, $60,000; insured.

Thomas Chalmers, $60,000; insurance.

Henry Bosch and Co., paints and wall papers, $125,000; insurance $110,000.

George T. Moore, moulding company, $15,000.

Thomas Mortook, owner of a building, $4,000; insured.

FORTY-TWO HOUSES BURNED.

Wilmington, N. C., July 7.—Fire at Clinton, N. C., yesterday destroyed forty-two stores and residences, causing a loss of $100,000, on which there was little insurance. Among the buildings burned was the Episcopal church and the Western Union telegraph office.

Miss Ella Settle returned from Clinton and Mayfield at noon today after a four weeks' visit to friends and relatives.

PADUCAHAN NAMED

Councilman Ed Woolfolk Placed on the Kentucky Exhibit Board.

Is the Only Member From This End of the State—Five New Members Elected Saturday.

COMMITTEE MEETING OCT. 6

Councilman Ed Woolfolk, of Paducah, has been chosen as one of the five new members of the Kentucky Exhibit Association, to serve in conjunction with the other prominent men who are seeking a means of having Kentucky appropriately represented at the St. Louis exposition. The five new members were elected at a meeting at the Commercial club room Saturday at Louisville, and are as follows: Ed Woolfolk, Paducah; Boyle G. Boyle, Samuel Grabfelter and Charles P. Weaver, of Louisville, and S. S. Savage, of Ashland.

The original members are as follows: Clarence Dallam, Governor J. C. W. Beckham, James H. Parrish, of Owensboro; E. J. Hickey, of Covington; A. Smith Bowman, of Lexington; and W. H. Newman, A. Y. Ford, Marion E. Taylor, Charles B. Norton and Sam P. Jones, of Louisville.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Ford, Bowman and Newman was appointed to draft rules for the various committees and to make suggestions as to the membership of the committee. This committee to report October 6. The object in placing the date so far ahead was that the association purposes to take hold of the matter in its charge in earnest, and the members felt that, owing to the intervention of the summer months and the absence of many people from the city, it would be advisable to begin operations at a more favorable time than the present.

ASKING ABOUT DYE.

Mayor Yeiser this morning received a letter from a lithographers association at Louisville making inquiry of Sydney A. Dye, who had a leg out on the railroad here a few weeks ago. The letter states that he is not a member of the association there. The writer is mistaken, however, about Dye claiming to be a member of the Louisville association, as it was St. Louis.

THE LOWER BOARD

First Meeting in Three Weeks to be Held Tonight.

A Number of Important Ordinances and Committee Reports are Expected.

COMPROMISE TAX QUESTION

The city council will meet tonight in regular session, with a three weeks' accumulation of business. It is probable the session will be an interesting one.

The fire committee may recommend to the council that the hose deal mud-die be dropped and the hose paid for, although it was empowered to buy the hose it deemed best, and the council will probably ratify its action, whatever it may be.

The committee appointed to recommend an attorney to revise the ordinances of the city will recommend Mr. J. C. Flornoy, and should the selection be ratified by both boards, work will begin at once.

The ordinance revising the milk and meat inspector's ordinance may be ready for presentation. It is made necessary by the fact that no one man can comply with the requirements of the old ordinance, and the city might as well be without an inspector under the present ordinance.

The railroad committee will probably make a report on the advisability of permitting the Illinois Central to run a switch down Myers street in Mechanicsburg for the benefit of the factories there.

A report is expected from the board of special supervisors.

The question of allowing the city clerk an assistant may come up again. Acting City Attorney Lightfoot reported at the last meeting that it could not be legally done, but Attorney Whitten has returned and is expected to give a different sort of opinion.

The ordinance for a steam heating franchise will probably be given final passage.

A report is expected on the question of compelling corporations to pay the difference between the amount of franchise taxes assessed against them a few years ago, and the amounts the city accepted in good faith as compromises. It was referred to the finance committee, and is said the matter will be dropped.

HOW ANDRE DIED

Noted Aeronaut Was Killed by Eskimos 2 Years ago.

First News of His Fate Reaches This Country through a Minister.

THREE IN THE PARTY KILLED

Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—The Rev. Dr. Ferlies, a Church of England clergyman, arrived from York Factory, Northwest British Territory, and brings authentic information of the fate of Explorer Andre and his companions.

Two years ago, 1,800 miles north of York, a party of Eskimos, under the leadership of "Old Hunkie," saw the Andre balloon alight on a plain of snow in that vicinity, which is almost two miles north of Fort Churchill. Three men emerged from the balloon, and some of "Hunkie's" people approached them out of curiosity.

As they did so one of Andre's companions fired off a gun. This is a signal to uncivilized natives for battle. It is regarded as a challenge, and almost instantly the natives fell upon the three explorers and massacred them. Everything pertaining to their outfit was carried away to the homes of the natives on the north borders of the arctic region.

"Old Hunkie" himself gave this information to Ralph Alstine, agent for the Hudson Bay company, and the story, after being investigated by Dr. Ferlies, was told by him today. He says that there is little room for doubt, as frequent reports have since come of the strange implements which the north natives have in their possession, the telescope being particularly described.

The Hudson Bay company has recently offered a reward for the recovery of any portion of the outfit belonging to Andre, and though natives have gone on the search for them, they have never returned, believing, as Dr. Ferlies says, that they will in some way be punished, for they now understand that it was not an attack upon them, but an accident by which the gun was discharged that precipitated the massacre.

MILLION DOLLAR SHOPS

REPORTED THEY WILL BE BUILT BY THE L. AND N. IN SOUTH LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., July 7.—According to the Courier-Journal it is the present intention of the Louisville and Nashville railroad to build general shops in South Louisville. It is stated that the new mechanical engineer of the road, Randolph Curtis, Superintendent of Machinery Leeds, and two assistants of Chief Engineer R. Montgomery are now at work on the plans which involve the expenditure of $1,000,000. It is understood that Mr. Curtis has recently visited the largest shops in the east and that the proposed plant of the Louisville and Nashville will be equipped with the most modern machinery. It is further stated that the expenditure has already been authorized and that work will begin in a short time.

DETERMINED TO DIE.

Beaumont, Tex., July 7.—F. W. McGowan, proprietor of the Beaumont cycle works, suicided by taking a large dose of morphine. An effort was made to dissuade him, but he prevented interference by displaying a pistol, and afterwards managed to elude those who were guarding him. He avowed two weeks ago that he intended to suicide.

SUSIE FRASER

Girl Killed Her Uncle July 4—Judge Orders Her Many Offenders in His Court.

Killed Her Uncle July 4—Judge Orders Her Many Offenders in His Court.

MANY MISDEMEANORS TRIED

Susie Fraser, the ten year old colored girl charged with killing her uncle, George Jones, at his home on broad street Fourth of July, was this morning presented in the police court and discharged from custody by Judge Sanders. The coroner's jury exonerated her Saturday afternoon, and no warrant was issued against her, at the instance of County Attorney Graves, who did not think from the start that a case could be made out.

Judge Sanders advised the girl to find some other home. He informed her that her aunt was not the proper person to raise her, so far as he could learn, and that the woman's dissolute habits caused the tragedy which resulted in the death of her husband. The girl was then allowed to go free.

Jones made a dying statement which was presented to the authorities in which he admitted that it was his own act which caused the girl to shoot him.

Vera Connelly and Lillie Bulger, of West Court street, were presented in the police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and were fined $20 and costs each. The court informed them that next time they are before him he will require them to execute a $500 bond or go to jail. He said the women of West Court street must conduct themselves differently on the streets.

A case against Norfleet Finley, colored, for beating his wife, was continued and an attachment was issued against the woman.

Ed Jones, a stranger, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5 and costs.

A gaming case against A. J. Layden was again continued. It is of the absence of witness.

A breach of the peace case against John Rogers, colored, Clark, the John Crawford and a colored woman were continued.

The case against I. L. Leach, colored, and Ed Burdette, colored, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was continued.

Warner Woodridge, Ed Hicks and Ira Poe, for plain drunks, were fined $1 and costs.

John Schraven, Pat Lydon, Arthur Dunn, C. Williams, M. Hester, Will Taylor, John Quinn, Tom Shanks and Ed Randolph were acquitted on a charge of being disorderly.

The false swearing cases against Ella Hopson, Flora and Emma Martin and Ellen Parker, colored, were continued until Saturday. They are alleged to have sworn falsely in a case against the Parker woman in which she was charged with stealing from Breeden's drug store. The Hopson woman has run away but the officers will make every effort to capture her.

The case against Jim Dusenberry, charged with stealing some hinges, was left open. It is said the hinges will be found today.

Judge Sanders today inaugurated a good plan, that of keeping all but officers, attorneys and press representatives from behind the railing during police court. Usually a crowd of idlers occupy all the seats and general nuisances of themselves.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE AT SALONICA.

DISPATCH FROM VIENNA SAYS MANY LIVES WERE LOST.

THE FIRST.

NEW LICENSE TAX HITS ONE MANAGER HARD.

Lebanon, Ky., July 7.—The McCoy and Shannon railroad shows came to grief in this city Saturday as a result of the law relating to trained animal exhibitions, passed by the recent legislature. Trained animal shows have heretofore paid only $5 license tax to the state. The show came here yesterday for a two days' stay, but when the manager learned the license would cost him about $150 for the four performances he took out a license for only one day. Today he said the show would close and disband, as it could not pay the heavy tax now exacted. The manager told his troubles to the city authorities, and they generously gave him a license gratis. Another exhibition was given and tonight the show left for Lebanon, where it is billed to exhibit Monday.

SENT OUT WRECKER.

ELEVEN EMPTIES DERAILED AT PRINCETON THIS MORNING.

Eleven empty flat cars were derailed at Princeton early this morning on the O. V. tracks and delayed the Hopkinsville accommodation train over the Illinois Central some little time.

The wrecker was sent out from Paducah to replace the derailed cars and the work was completed within a few hours. The main line was blocked for two hours or more but no serious delays were occasioned to the fast passenger trains. No one was reported injured.

THE PERFECT LIVER MEDICINE

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

TELEGRAPH OPERATOR QUITE ILL.

Mr. T. O. Martin, the day telegraph operator at the local Illinois Central yardmaster's office, still continues ill and unable to work. Mr. D. J. Russell of Louisville, who has been working extra at night, is now acting in his place. The many friends of Mr. Martin will regret to learn that he is unable to be out.

Rev. W. L. Riley, L.L.D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After 15 days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, the first application giving my first relief, and the second, entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation. 25c. 50c and $1 at DuBois Kolb and Co.

Hendrick, along with a large number of others, has just completed a six year course, including four years at the academy and two years at sea. Cadet Landrum is now an ensign, and will probably get off on a leave of absence and come home for a vacation. He is well known in Paducah and has many friends here.

SLEPT SOUNDLY.

WHILE AN ITINERANT WILLIAM GOAT DEVoured HIS ACCOUNTS.

Mr. R. Geagen, the well known brewery agent, is a sound sleeper, although he will not admit the fact. Yesterday afternoon he hid himself to the back yard and placing a chair under a tree went to sleep. He had his account book, a book in which he keeps all his day accounts, posted up once every week, in his rear pocket. A stray goat which had gotten into his yard seeing the inviting leather protruding from the pocket, took immediate charge of the book and ate every written leaf out. The blank leaves were left. Mr. Geagen will hereafter leave all his books in the house when he prepares for another outdoor nap.

WARRIORS SCALP COMRADE

AND THEN STAB HIS SQUAW TO DEATH.

Guthrie, Okla., July 7.—Several Apache warriors have been arrested by the Federal officers at Fort Sill, charged with killing and scalping another member of the tribe and stabbing his squaw to death. This is the first time in recent years that scalping has been reported among the semi-civilized Indians. The Apaches were only recently released from the Fort Sill reservation, where they were prisoners of war for fifteen years.

WAS ACQUITTED.

WILL WOODS WAS THE AGGRESSOR IN THE MASSAO TRAGEDY.

E. Dnsche, charged at Metropolis with having killed Will Woods at Gabtown, five miles from Metropolis, last Monday night, was acquitted by the coroner's jury. The evidence showed that Woods went to Elmo Dnsche's store for the purpose of having trouble, but the other man was too quick with his gun when Woods undertook to draw his.

Mr. T. A. Banks, trainmaster of the Louisville division of the I. O., and wife returned home this morning to Princeton, after a short visit here.

RECEIVES A LETTER OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Dr. Elson, of the Dick Fowler, received a letter thanking him for the scabbard he presented to Dr. Elson, of Wooster, O., when the doctor was here recently on a visit. He came down with the Ohio veterans who were on their way to Shiloh to attend the dedication of monuments, and having been here during the war, he stopped over and visited the scenes of his younger days.

He was sent here, it seems, as a prisoner, and was in the First Baptist church, which was then a hospital. After having recovered he became a nurse, and spent considerable time here.

He desired some souvenir from the old fort below the city, and was presented by Captain Orider with an old scabbard found on the fort by his son. For this Dr. Elson seems very grateful and says he has presented it to the G. A. R. of his home.

STRAW HATS.

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL ALLOWS CONDUCTORS TO DISCARD CAPS.

This morning the Fulton and Louisville accommodation train conductor, Mr. Ed T. Arnn, came through with the new straw uniform cap. The caps are of brown straw and nearly the shape of the regular uniform cap. The passenger train men are permitted to wear this style of headgear between June 1 and September 30, the company having granted that privilege on the third, effective immediately. The bulletin announcing the order was not posted here until yesterday, however. This is of great convenience to the brakemen and conductors during the hot weather as the regulation caps are heavy and very hot.

MALARIA An Invisible Enemy to Health

Menns bad air, and whether it comes from the low lands and marshes of the country, or the filthy sewers and drain pipes of the cities and towns, its effect upon the human system is the same.

These atmospheric poisons are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood, and the foundation of some long, debilitating illness is laid. Chills and fever, chronic dyspepsia, torpid and enlarged liver, kidney troubles, jaundice and biliousness are frequently due to that invisible foe, Malaria. Noxious gases and unhealthy matter collect in the system because the liver and kidneys fail to act, and are poured into the blood current until it becomes so polluted and sluggish that the poisons literally break through the skin, and carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and various eruptions of an indolent character appear, depleting the system, and threatening life itself.

The germs and poisons that so oppress and weaken the body and destroy the life-giving properties of the blood, rendering it thin and watery, must be overcome and carried out of the system before the patient can hope to get rid of Malaria and its effects.

S. S. S. does this and quickly produces an entire change in the blood, reaching every organ and stimulating them to vigorous, healthy action. S. S. S. possesses not only purifying but tonic properties, and the general health improves, and the appetite increases almost from the first dose. There is no Mercury, Potash, Arsenic or other mineral in S. S. S. It is strictly and entirely a vegetable remedy.

Write us about your case, and our physicians will gladly help you by their advice to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases sent free.

The Charleson came out of Tennessee river last night with a good trip, and is unloading at Jopka. She leaves on her return tomorrow at 5 p. m.

The Clifton en route to Tennessee river passed up Saturday night at 12 o'clock with an excellent trip and will report back to Paducah about Wednesday night.

The following towboats left Pittsburgh Thursday with coal for the combine: Vallant, 30 barges; Ed Roberts, 30 barges; Mt. Clare, 33 barges, and J. B. Lewis, 23 barges.

The Swallow and Markle boat shows arrived yesterday from above, in the tow of the Antoinette, and will give a performance here tonight. It is on its way down the Mississippi.

The distance by water from Paducah to Chattanooga is just 469 miles, most of which is beautiful travel. During the journey there are two canals to pass through, one around Mnsel Shoals, with nine locks, and the other

JUMPED OUT

Mrs. N. B. Gardner Painfully Hurt in an Accident.

Street Car Frightened the horse and Caused it to Run Away.

Mrs. Napoleon Gardner, wife of the well known furniture dealer, was painfully injured in a runaway last night near the Sleeth drug store, corner Ninth and Broadway, and her baby was slightly bruised in the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and child were driving home to Washington street and when Ninth and Broadway was reached a street car came out of the switch. The headlight frightened the horse and as it started and started to run Mrs. Gardner, holding the child, jumped out. The wheels of the vehicle passed over her body and as a result she is suffering from a badly bruised right breast and an ugly cut on the right ear.

She was unconscious when picked up and the baby was found under her. Mr. Gardner remained in the buggy and succeeded in stopping the animal within a block or two. Returning he secured a cot and conveyed his wife to his home where Dr. Reddick was summoned and dressed the injuries. Mrs. Gardner and the child both had a narrow escape. Today they are resting easy.

MONDAY, JULY 7, 1902.

DAILY THOUGHT.

"To think of others as much as possible, and of self as seldom as possible is the secret of happiness, ease and good manners."

THE WEATHER.

Showers and thunder storms, and cooler tonight and probably Tuesday.

It is said that our neighbor, Metropolis, never lets anything go by, even a dead dog.

It begins to look as if a dark horse would stand a good chance at the Democratic appellate nomination in this district.

President Roosevelt's speech at Pittsburg on Fourth of July is terse, vigorous and patriotic, and should be read by everybody.

Some Knoxville students have defied war against ignorance. They start in on a few of the Democratic congressmen.

Some socialists have attacked and corporations, but declare politicians can never destroy them as they are the outgrowth of the government.

Some of Venezuela will be the field against the latter's army is great Matos, and had been greatly against the government.

Aguiñalde wants to enjoy his freedom, but he doesn't think he can do it in his own country. He wants to come to the United States where he will be more or less of a freak and probably be taken about the country on a special train. When he sees what Admiral Dewey said about him, however, he will probably not feel so gay.

Vienna pokes fun at J. Pierpont Morgan, and one of the papers de-

Wall street brokers are known as experienced men, and what they do in the way of publicity may be worthy of emulation, as far as it goes. Among these very shrewd people, it is a rule not to send out circulars with a one-cent stamp. They seal them and they pay for them letter postage, their own practice teaching them that letter-paid mail is most likely to get beyond the office boy.

recesses that without his check book Morgan would not have been a welcome guest of the German emperor. It might have added that without his distinction the German emperor would not have been a welcome host for J. Pierpont either.

Apparently authentic advices from the far north indicate that Explorer Andre, after braving the cold and privations of a far northern journey for many months, at last fell a victim to the treachery of natives. He and his two remaining companions were murdered. It is likely that a great many more years will pass before the north pole is discovered.

One of our enterprising contemporaries, by raking up some of the old records, has conclusively proven that the city paid 90 cents for cotton hose that is now rotten, and didn't last three years, thus convicting some of the present fire committee that rubber hose, guaranteed for five years, with a $1,000 indemnity bond, is at this rate worth easily $1.50 a foot, while they bought it for only $1.05 a foot. A few more such moves and the committee will be willing to pay the National India Rubber company a bonus to fill the order.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler has announced that he will not be a candidate for governor. He will retire from active politics for four years, and then seek the United States senatorship to succeed Senator Blackburn. Democratic politicians in this district are beginning to wonder which of the various candidates for state office in the district are going to get knifed. With a candidate for governor and three for secretary of state in the first district, it is evident that someone is going to get left off the slate.

While the subject of bonds is up, it might be well for the city to make a wholesale investigation of all the bonds and sureties the city has. If this investigation is made, it will doubtless be found that about two-thirds of the bonds given for police officers, saloon keepers, teamsters and drivers of other vehicles, as well as many others, are absolutely worthless. These bonds are required by law, and are intended as a protection, and should protect. The city should see that every bond it has taken from any officer, no matter how unimportant, is good. Straw bonds have been permitted too long.

DIDN'T MEAN IT THAT WAY.

The attempt of the small boy to be polite ended rather disastrously, although not through any intentional omission on his part. He had been in the habit of supplying the evening paper to a politician, a man of correct business habits, who discovered one evening that he had not the penny for payment.

"That's all right," said the boy, "you can give it to me tomorrow night."

"But, my boy," interposed the gentleman, impressively, "I may not be alive tomorrow night."

"Never mind," answered the boy, cheerfully, "it'll be no great loss."

A shadow fell across the statesman's face, and he is still wondering whether the boy, despite his look of innocence, was thinking solely of the penny.

HAS MOVED HIS FAMILY HERE.

Mrs. G. D. Elmore, wife of the manager of the Standard Oil company, has arrived from Lebanon, Ky., her former home and will go to house-keeping this week. Mr. Elmore succeeded Agent Baker who was promoted and is a brother to Mr. John D. Elmore, the car inspector formerly stationed here on the Illinois Central, but now running on the fast trains as flagman.

FIRST CLASS.

Inspection Made of the Post Office Here Saturday.

Receipts of the Last Quarter Show a Big Increase in Paducah.

Inspector Secong, of Cincinnati, made an inspection of the local post-office Saturday and found it to be one of the best in the state. It will be given the highest rating possible. He left yesterday for home.

The receipts of the postoffice for the quarter ending June 30 last are $9,658.44, as against the receipts of the same quarter last year of $8,717.25, showing an increase of nearly $1,000. Postmaster Fisher regards this as a good indication that the Paducah post-office will get into the first class by the end of the present fiscal year. At this rate of increase it is certain to, as the Paducah office fell short only about $3500 last year.

There are many advantages to be gained in having the office in the first class, one of which is the addition of two extra clerks, and the making of this into a night office. It is now practically a night office, but is not so rated.

FELL FROM MILL.

ED CHILES PAINFULLY HURT YESTERDAY AFTER-NOON LATE.

Mr. Ed Chiles of South Third street was seriously injured yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock at the Bell Spoke factory.

Chiles and several companions had gone to the factory to pass away the time, and were seated in the rear of the building about twelve feet from the ground, the rear of the mill being built on an embankment. In some way he fell from the floor and struck the ground below, breaking his right wrist and severely wrenching and bruising his right hip. Dr. Coyle was summoned and dressed the injuries.

OUT AGAIN.

CIRCUIT CLERK HOBSON GETTING READY TO CELEBRATE HIS BIRTHDAY.

Circuit Clerk H. H. Hobson was out this morning for the first time since he was injured at Dawson last week. He was at the court house this morning, and his many friends were pleased to see him out again. Tomorrow will be Colonel Hobson's sixty-third birthday, and he said that he could not remain indoors on that date, and would have to get out one day ahead of time to practice up and get in trim.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The county teachers' institute opened up at Massac this morning. Superintendent A. M. Ragsdale is there assisting in conducting the institute. This will probably be one of the biggest meets in several years. It has been well advertised, and nothing has been left undone to secure a large attendance.

THE DAY'S DEATHS.

Mrs. Belle Padgett, aged 24, died in Worten's addition yesterday afternoon from heart disease, and her remains were buried this morning.

Newt Carter, W. B. Mathney and R. E. Torian, for obstructing the market with their chicken coops, were granted a continuance.

HE THOUGHT THEY WERE LOST

A western exchange tells of the janitor of a city school, who threw up his job one day, and when asked by a friend what the trouble was, said: "Well, its this: I'm honest, and I won't stand being slurred. If I ever found a pencil or anything else in the school when I was sweepin' out, I always gave it in to the principal, but, just the same, the teachers, or some one that's too mean to face me, gives me the slur."

"In what way?" asked the friend.

"Well, just this: A little while ago I saw written on the board, 'Find the common multiple.' Well, I didn't say a word, but I searched from garret to cellar and I couldn't find the darn thing. Well, again last night, in big writin' on the same board, it said, 'Find the common divisor.' Well, I says to myself, says I, 'both them darn things be lost now, and I'll get blamed for sweepin' 'em, so I'll quit.'"

Master Herbert Torrence, the 15-year-old son of Mr. C. A. Torrence, the grocer at Eighth and Harrison streets, fell from a hammock at noon today and fractured his right wrist.

COMPROMISE EFFECTED

MRS. HELEN HECHT BUYS OUT SIG SOMMERS AND ENDS CASE.

A compromise was this morning effected in the suit of Helen Hecht against Sigmond Sommers, brought by Attorneys Lightfoot and Yonts several days ago to enforce a dissolution of partnership, the appointment of a receiver for the stock of goods and an equal distribution of the proceeds of the sale.

The plaintiff in the action charged that Sommers had entered into a contract with her and that a partnership was effected, the firm name being "Hecht and Sommers, wholesale clothing." She alleged that Sommers claimed she took too much from the assets at the end of the year and alleges that Sommers took too much also and that they could not agree as to the method of running the business. The suit was compromised by Mrs. Hecht buying out Sommers for $6,500, and continuing the business in her own name. The suit had never been brought to trial.

Raymond, the 20-months-old son of Mr. John Wooten, died this afternoon on North Thirteenth street.

PRESSED HARD.

COFFEE'S WEIGHT ON OLD AGE.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

Mr. C. C. Wright, superintendent of public schools in North Carolina, says: "My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, and had been troubled with her heart for a number of years, and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach."

"Some time ago I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country, and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavor of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum Food coffee. I was so pleased with it, that after the meal was over I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal; the whole family were so well pleased with it that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely."

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time she felt so much better than she had prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us."

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but not in so marked a degree as in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing."

WITH THE THEATERS.

The offering at La Belle park theater tonight is the farce comedy "Too Much Smith." This is an exceedingly clever play and has been a great hit in all the large cities, and although having been played by first class one-night stand companies has never been seen in Paducah, consequently our theater goers can expect something new and original. New specialties and fine music will enhance the bill. Mr. Howard will continue to sing his delightful ballads, and the performance will close with a grand medley of songs, by all the company, graced with appropriate evolutions, which have been specially arranged for this production.

Manager Schaeffer of the La Belle Park stock was amused last week to receive a letter from the manager of the Arnold Stock company calling him down for attempting to make capital out of the Arnold Stock company's reputation by claiming that Miss Leslie Verden, one of the members of the La Belle stock, was of the Arnold stock, when in reality she was with the Morey stock. It was simply a mistake of the La Belle press agent, and no effort to get any of the Arnold prestige.

The members of the English Stock company have not yet signed for the season, but will doubtless have no trouble in getting good engagements. Mr. James will go to Nebraska to visit his father. Miss Gale, Miss Stockton, Mr. Forsythe and Mr. Harmon to New York. Mr. Florence to Chicago. Mr. Grigg to Kansas City. Mr. Seaton to Chicago. Miss Field to upper Kentucky to visit relatives, and Miss Ford to Indianapolis. The New York crowd will probably go to Pittsburgh by boat.

"Josh Whitcomb," a comedy of great reputation, will be presented by the English Stock company this evening at The Kentucky, and should be seen by a large crowd. This is the last week of the company, and it deserves a generous farewell. The specialties will be good, as usual.

Miss Alma Hayes, whose songs at The Kentucky have made her so popular with theater goers, may go out with a concert company the coming season. She has a very fine voice, and would readily make a success.

Rose Coghlan has secured the rights of "Miss Monilton" from Clara Morris, and will star in it this season. This is one of the plays given by the English Stock company this season.

It is said that Lewis Morrison has never yet had an unprofitable season of Fanst. In September he will start the twenty-first season.

HOUSE VACATED.

WORK TO BEGIN ON THE NEW CITY OFFICES AT ONCE.

Mrs. M. A. Byrd, who lives in the city property adjoining the city hall, has packed up her goods and stored them until a house she has rented on Clark street is vacant. This is the house the city is to remodel and convert into offices for the city engineer and street inspector, and which it was believed they would have some trouble in getting possession of.

CIRCUIT COURT.

At press time this afternoon the case of T. J. Flornoy, assignee, against John Onley, and others was on trial in circuit court. The suit is a building and loan case, for the enforcement of a settlement, the sale of land, to settle the company business.

There were two judgments filed in circuit court this morning. F. G. Randolph, administrator, was given a judgment against Mary E. Wood and others for the commissioner to collect sale bond and pay out the money derived from the sale.

In the Pioneer Building and Loan association suit against Minnie Holmes and others a judgment was filed in favor of the defendant, dismissing the petition of the plaintiff.

IS GOING TO LEAVE HIM

A sharp featured woman called on County Judge Lightfoot Saturday and after sitting around and frowning furiously for five or ten minutes became impatient and walked up and said:

"Jedge, I got a old man at my house I want taken care uv."

"Well, madam," replied the judge, who had evidently seen the caller before, "I am sorry, but fiscal court declined to do anything for him."

"It did, did it?" she echoed menacingly. "Wal, now I want ter know what it done that for?"

"Because, as I understand it," snarled explained the judge, "he is a resident of Marshall county, and is drawing a pension from there now."

"Aint doin' no sech thing, now!" she exclaimed. "I aint able to take keer uv that man, and that's all there is about it. I got a baby, and it's as much as I ken do to take keer of it."

"What relation is this old man to you?" asked the judge.

"Nuthin' hut a half uncle."

"How long has he been here?"

"Sence Christmas."

"Where did he come from?"

"From Marshall county."

"Well, where did he live there?"

"He lived in the pore house."

"Oh yes, I begin to see," smiled the court. "He heard about how well we take care of people in this county and thought he would cross over, did he? Well, madam, we can do nothing for you."

"Well, jedge," she persisted, "cyan't you help me take keer uv that old man the rest of the week? Then I'll send him home."

"Home," repeated the judge in mock surprise. "I thought you said he had no home. Where is his home?"

"Enywhere you say it is, jedge, I reckon," she snapped, seeing that she was tripped.

"Well, where did you mean you would send him?"

"Back wher his people lives in Marshall," she replied.

"No madam," concluded the judge, "we have no lands for such purposes. We can do nothing at all for you. This county can't even help you take care of him the rest of the week."

Then the woman got mad. Shaking her finger at the judge, she declared: "I'm goin' ter bring that old man right up here Monday an' leave him, and you ken do what you please with him. I aint goin' to be bothered with him no longer." And she left.

At last accounts the woman hadn't brought her half uncle around, and Judge Lightfoot does not know what he would do should the indigent emigrant be unloaded at his office in such a manner. He says he has heard of a good many ways to make the county take care of paupers, but he never before heard of one being left in the county judge's office like a stray dog. He sincerely hopes this method of disposing of the poor will not become popular during his term of office.

THE RELIGION OF INDIA.

The earliest source for the religion of India is the hymns of the Rig Veda, the date of which is now fixed at about 1000 B. C. In one of these hymns we encounter as the creator Purnsha, who is simply a "magnified man." A pantheistic turn, however, is given to this conception under the influence of which Purnsha becomes the "all in all," and is identified with the universe, with what has been and what shall be. All gods, animals and castes are parts of him. The moon is his mind, the sun his eye, from his mouth sprang Indra and Agni, and from his breath Vayu; space from his navel, heaven from his head and the earth from his feet. This emanation theory, when freed from its primitive elements, becomes pantheism pure and simple. In accord with this view the source of creative activity is carried back in other hymns to "desire." We read in Vedic literature that "desire is the seed of the mind."—Harper's.

"A Study In Scarlet"

BY CONAN DOYLE

the time with his brows knitted.

"You will give us time," he said at last.

"My daughter is very young—she is scarce of an age to marry."

"She shall have a month to choose," said Young, rising from his seat.

"At the end of that time she shall give her answer."

He was passing through the door when he turned, with flushed face and flashing eyes.

"It were better for you, John Ferrier," he thundered, "that you and she were now lying blanched skeletons upon the Sierra Blanca than that you should put your weak wills against the orders of the holy fount!"

With a threatening gesture of his hand he turned from the door, and Ferrier heard his heavy steps crashing along the shingly path.

He was still standing with his elbows upon his knees, considering how he should broach the matter to his daughter, when a soft hand was laid upon his, and looking up he saw her standing beside him.

One glance at the pale, frightened face showed him that she had heard what had passed.

"I could not help it," she said in answer to his look.

"His voice rang through the house. Oh, father, father, what shall we do?"

"Don't, ye scare yourself," he answered, drawing her to him and passing his broad, rough hand caressingly over her chestnut hair.

"We'll fix it up somehow or another. Ye don't find yer fancy kind o' lessening for this chap, do ye?"

A sob and a squeeze of his hand was her only answer.

"No, o' course not. I shouldn't care to hear ye say ye did. He's a likely lad, and he's a Christian, which is more than these folk here, in spite o' all their praying and preaching. There's a party starting for Nevada tomorrow, and I'll manage to send him a message, letting him know the hole we are in. If I know anything o' that young man, he'll be back here with a speed that would whip electro-telegraphs."

They laughed through her tears at her father's description.

"When he comes, he will advise us for the best. But it is for you that I am frightened, dear. One hears—one hears such dreadful stories about these who oppose the prophet. Something terrible always happens to them."

"But we haven't opposed him yet," her father answered.

"It will be time to look out for squalls when we do. We have a clear month before us. At the end of that I guess we had best shin out of Utah."

"Leave Utah?"

"That's about the size of it."

"But the farm?"

"We will raise as much as we can in money and let the rest go. Tell the truth, Lucy, it isn't the first time I have thought of doing it. I don't care about knuckling under to any man as these folk do to their damned prophet. I'm a freeborn American, and it's all new to me. Guess I'm too old to learn. If he comes browbeating about this farm, he might chance to run up against a charge of backshot traveling in the opposite direction."

"But they won't let us leave," his daughter objected.

"Wait till Jefferson comes, and we'll soon manage that. In the meantime, don't ye fret yourself, my dearie, and don't get yer eyes swelled up, else he'll be walking into me when he sees ye. There's nothing to be afraid about, and there's no danger at all."

John Ferrier uttered these comforting remarks in a very confident tone, but she could not help observing that he paid unusual care to the fastening of the doors that night, and that he carefully cleaned and loaded the rusty old shotgun which hung upon the wall of his bedroom.

CHAPTER IV.

On the morning which followed his interview with the Mormon prophet John Ferrier went in to Salt Lake City, and having found his acquaintance, who was bound for the Nevada mountains, he intrusted him with his message to Jefferson Hope. In it he told the young man of the imminent danger which threatened them and how necessary it was that he should return. Having done this, he felt easier in his mind and returned home with a lighter heart.

As he approached his farm he was surprised to see a horse bled to each of the posts of the gate. Still more surprised was he, on entering, to find two young men in possession of his sitting room. One, with a long, pale face, was leaning back in the rocking chair, with his feet cocked up upon the stove. The other, a bull-necked youth, with coarse, bloated features, was standing in front of the window with his hands in his pockets, whistling a popular hymn. Both of them nodded to Ferrier as he entered, and the one in the rocking chair commenced the conversation.

"Mavon don't know us," he said.

"This here is the son of Elder Drebber, and I'm Joseph Stangereson, who traveled with you in the desert when the Lord stretched out his hand and gathered you into the true fold."

"As he will all the nations in his oved good time," said the other in a nasal voice. "He grindeth slowly, but exceeding small."

John Ferrier bowed coldly. He had guessed who his visitors were.

"We have come," continued Stangereson, "at the advice of our fathers, to solicit the hand of your daughter for whichever of us may seem good to you and to her. As I have but four wives and Brother Drebber here has seven, it appears to me that my claim is the stronger one."

"Nay, nay, Brother Stangereson," cried the other. "The question is not how many wives we have, but how many we can keep. My father has now given over his mills to me, and I am the richer man."

"But my prospects are better," said the other warmly. "When the Lord removes my father, I shall have his tanning yard and his leather factory. Then I am your alder and am higher in the church."

"It will be for the maiden to decide," rejoined young Drebber, smirking at his own reflection in the glass. "We will leave it all to her decision."

During this dialogue John Ferrier had stood fuming in the doorway, hardly able to keep his rising whip from the backs of his two visitors.

"Look here," he said at last, striding up to them, "when my daughter smirns ye, ye can come, but until then I don't want to see yer faces again."

The two young Mormons stared at him in amazement. In their eyes this competition between them for the maiden's hand was the highest of honors, both to her and her father.

"There are two ways out of the room," cried Ferrier. "There is the door, and there is the window. Which do ye care to use?"

His brown face looked so savage and his gaunt hands so threatening that his visitors sprang to their feet and beat a hurried retreat. The old farmer followed them to the door.

"Let me know when ye have settled which it is to be," he said sardonically.

"Ye shall smart for this!" Stangereson cried, white with rage. "Ye have defied the prophet and the council of four. Ye shall rue it to the end of your days."

"The hand of the Lord shall be heavy upon you!" cried young Drebber. "He will arise and smite you!"

"Then I'll start the smiting!" exclaimed Ferrier furiously and would have rushed up stairs for his gun had not Lucy seized him by the arm and restrained him. Before he could escape from her the clatter of horses' hoofs told him that they were beyond his reach.

"The young canting rascals!" he exclaimed, wiping the perspiration from his forehead. "I would sooner see ye in yer grave, my girl, than the wife o' either o' them."

"And so should I, father," she answered, with spirit. "But Jefferson will soon be here."

"Yes; it will not be long before he comes. The sooner the better, for we do not know what their next move may be."

It was indeed high time that some one capable of giving advice and help should come to the aid of the sturdy old farmer and his adopted daughter. In the whole history of the settlement there had never been such a case of rack disobedience to the authority of the elders. If minor errors were punished so sternly, what would be the fate of this arch rebel? Ferrier knew that his wealth and position would be of no avail to him. Others as well known and as rich as himself had been spirited away before now and their goods given over to the church. He was a brave man, but he trembled at the vague, shadowy terrors which hung over him. Any known danger he could face with a firm lip, but this suspense was unnerving. He concealed his fears from his daughter, however, and affected to make light of the whole matter, though she, with the keen eye of love, saw plainly that he was ill at ease.

He expected that he would receive some message or remonstrance from Young as to his conduct, and he was not mistaken, though it came in an unlooked-for manner. Upon rising next morning he found, to his surprise, a small square of paper pinned on the coverlet of his bed just over his chest. On it was printed in bold, straggling letters:

"Twenty-nine days are given you for amendment, and then—"

The dash was more fear inspiring than any threat could have been. How this warning came into his room puzzled John Ferrier sorely, for his servants slept in an outhouse, and the doors and windows had all been secured. crumpled the paper up and said nothing to his daughter, but the incident struck a chill into his heart. The 29 days were evidently the balance of the month which Young had promised. With strength or courage could avail again an enemy armed with such mysterious powers? The hand which fastened that pin might have struck him to the heart, and he could never have known who had slain him.

Still more shaken was he next morning. They had sat down to their breakfast when Lucy, with a cry of surprise, pointed upward. In the center of the ceiling was scrawled, with a burned stick apparently, the number 28. To his daughter it was unintelligible, and he did not enlighten her. That night he sat up with his gun and kept watch and ward. He saw and heard nothing, and yet in the morning a great 27 had been painted upon the outside of his door.

Thus day followed day, and as rare as morning came he found that his numerous enemies had kept their register and had marked up in some conspicuous position how many days were still left to him out of the month of grace. Sometimes the fatal numbers appeared upon the walls, sometimes upon the floors; occasionally they were on small placards stuck upon the garden gate or the railings. With all his vigilance John Ferrier could not discover whence these daily warnings proceeded. A horror which was almost superstitious came upon him at the sight of them. He became haggard and restless, and his eyes had the troubled look of some haunted creature. He had but one hope in life now, and that was for the arrival of the young hunter from Nevada.

Twenty had changed to 15, and 15 to 10, but there was no news of the absentee. One by one the numbers dwindled, and still there came no sign of him. Whenever a horseman clattered down the road or a driver shouted at his team, the old farmer hurried to the gate, thinking that help had arrived at last. At last, when he saw 5 give way to 4, and that again to 3, he lost heart and abandoned all hope of escape. Single handed, and with his limited knowledge of the mountains which surrounded the settlement, he knew that he was powerless. The more frequented roads were strictly watched and guarded, and none could pass along them without an order from the council. Turn which way he would, there appeared to be no avoiding the blow which hung over him. Yet the old man never wavered in his resolution to part with life itself before he consented to what he regarded as his daughter's dishonor.

He was sitting alone one evening pondering deeply over his troubles and searching vainly for some way out of them. That morning had shown the figure 2 upon the wall of his house, and the next day would be the last of the allotted time. What was to happen then? All manner of vague and terrible fancies filled his imagination. And his daughter—what was to become of her after he was gone? Was there no escape from the invisible network which was drawn all round them? He sank his head upon the table and sobbed at the thought of his own impotence.

What was that? In the silence he heard a gentle scratching sound—low, but very distinct, in the quiet of the night. It came from the door of the house. Ferrier crept into the hall and listened intently. There was a pause for a few moments, and then the low, insidious sound was repeated. Some one was evidently tapping very gently upon one of the panels of the door. Was it some midnight assassin who had come to carry out the murderous order of the secret tribunal? Or was it some agent who was marking up that the last day of grace had arrived? John Ferrier felt that instant death would be better than the suspense which took his nerves and chilled his heart. Springing forward, he drew the bolt and threw the door open.

Outside all was calm and quiet. The night was fine, and the stars were twinkling brightly overhead. The little front garden lay before the farmer's eyes, bounded by the fence and gate, but neither there nor on the road was any human being to be seen. With a sigh of relief Ferrier looked to right and to left, until happening to glance straight down at his own feet he saw to his astonishment a man lying flat upon his face upon the ground, with arms and legs all a-sprawled.

So unruined was he at the sight that he leaned up against the wall with his hand to his throat to stifle his inclination to call out. His first thought was that the prostrate figure was that of some wounded or dying man, but as he watched it he saw it writhe along the ground and into the hall with the rapidity and noiselessness of a serpent. Once within the house the man sprang to his feet, closed the door and revealed to the astonished farmer the fierce face and resolute expression of Jefferson Hope.

"Good God!" gasped John Ferrier.

"How you scared me! Whatever made you come in like that?"

"Give me food," the other said hoarsely.

"I have had no time for bite or sup for eight and forty hours." He flung himself upon the cold meat and bread which were still lying upon the table from his host's supper and devoured it voraciously.

"Does Lucy bear up well?" he asked when he had satisfied his hunger. "What are we to do?"

"Tomorrow is your last day, and unless you act tonight you are lost. I have a male and two horses waiting in the Eagle ravine. How much money have you?"

"Two thousand dollars in gold and five in notes."

"That will do. I have as much more to add to it. We must push for Carson City through the mountains. You had best wake Lucy. It is as well that the servants do not sleep in the house."

While Ferrier was absent preparing his daughter for the approaching journey Jefferson Hope packed all the articles that he could find into a small parcel and filled a stone jar with water, for he knew by experience that the mountain wells were few and far between. He had hardly completed his arrangements before the farmer returned, with his daughter all dressed and ready for a start. The greeting between the lovers was warm, but brief, for minutes were precious, and there was much to be done.

"We must make our start at once," said Jefferson Hope, speaking in a low but resolute voice, like one who realizes the greatness of the peril, but has steeled his heart to meet it. "The front and back entrances are watched, but with caution we may get away through the side window and across the fields. Once on the road we are only two miles from the ravine where the horses are waiting. By daybreak we should be half way through the mountains."

"What if we are stopped?" asked Ferrier.

Hope slipped the revolver butt which protruded from the front of his tunic. "If they are too many for us, we shall take two or three of them with us," he said, with a sinister smile.

The lights inside the house had all been extinguished, and from the darkness window Ferrier peered over the fields which had been his own, and which he was now about to abandon forever. He had long nursed himself to the sacrifice, however, and the thought of the honor and happiness of his daughter outweighed any regret at his ruined fortunes. All looked so peaceful and happy—the rustling trees and the broad, silent stretch of grain land—that it was difficult to realize that the spirit of murder lurked through it all. Yet the white face and set expression of the young hunter showed that in his approach to the house he had seen enough to satisfy him upon that head.

Ferrier carried the bag of gold and notes. Jefferson Hope had the scanty provisions and water, while Lucy had a small bundle containing a few of her more valued possessions. Opening the window very slowly and carefully, they waited until a dark cloud had somewhat obscured the night, and then one by one passed through into the little garden. With bated breath and crouching figures they stumbled across it and gained the shelter of the hedge, which they skirted until they came to the gap which opened into the cornfield. They had just reached this point when their young man seized his two companions and dragged them down into the shadow, where they lay silent and trembling.

It was as well that his prairie training had given Jefferson Hope the ears of a lynx. He and his friends had hardly crouched down before the melancholy hooting of a mountain owl was heard within a few yards of them, which was immediately answered by another hoot at a small distance. At the same moment a vague shadowy figure emerged from the gap for which they had been making and uttered the plaintive signal cry again, on which a second man appeared out of the obscurity.

"Tomorrow at midnight," said the first, who appeared to be in authority, "when the whippoorwill calls three times."

"It is well," returned the other.

"Shall I tell Brother Drebber?"

"Pass it on to him and from him to the others. Nine to seven."

"Seven to five," repeated the other, and the two figures fitted away in different directions. Their concluding words had evidently been some form of sign and countersign. The instant that their footsteps had died away in the distance Jefferson Hope sprang to his feet, and helping his companions through the gap led the way across the fields at full speed, supporting and half carrying the girl when her strength ap-

YOUTHFUL THIEVES

All Boys Arrested for Breaking into a Boxcar.

Held Over in Police Court—Will be Sent to Reform School.

Langster Greenwell of the Little Addition, a small boy twelve years old, and Lewis Bruff, of Hopkinsville, age 13, turned housebreakers yesterday and broke the seal on an Illinois Central box car in the new yards.

A colored boy saw them do it, and saw them emerge from the car with a box of cheap cuff buttons, which they divided. He seized them and was going to turn them over to the police when his father arrived and made him release the boys, fearing that his son had no right to hold them and that he might get into trouble by attempting it. Mr. George Richards, a car inspector and special Illinois Central police, heard of the matter and caught the boys near the Starr farm. He turned his charges over to Officer Tom Orr at the depot who took them to the city hall. Bruff is a young "hobo" and has been away from home for some time. He admits that he broke the seal but charged that the Green-well youth suggested the matter and Greenwell charged Bruff with having proposed the plan.

They claimed they thought the car contained bananas and other fruit.

Both were sent to jail by Judge Sanders this morning, and will be sent to the reform school if possible.
The superintendent at the latter institution will not accept them unless there is something to show that they are criminals and for this reason warrants will be issued against them and an effort made to send them there.

One of the boys, who lives here, has been in the custody of the police before.

FOR DAMAGES.

GABRIEL HESTER CLAIMS THAT HIS TOBACCO WAS EXEMPT.

Gabriel Hester, colored, through Attorneys Gilbert, Taylor and Lucas, this morning in circuit court filed suit against F. G. Rudolph and James Koger for $291, the value of a tobacco crop, and damages, making the total amount claimed about $350. Hester claims that the defendant Rudolph sued him and attached a crop of tobacco. The claim was assigned to Mr. Koger, and the tobacco sold, despite Hester's protest that it was exempt under the law. He now seeks to recover the value of the tobacco and damages.

Aday, arrives home this afternoon at he reached a few days ago after a three enlisted in Paducah, and has acquitted himself most creditably in Uncle Sam's army. He will find a hearty welcome from his many friends here.

Mr. M. L. Riley, the photographer, has gone to St. Louis to take a post-
